Democrats Jubilant.

The Democrats here are jubilant over the result of Tuesday's registration, and the Republicans are down in the mouth without a word to say. The Democrat's plurality of 289, with 120 Democrats yet to register, is the "blow that almost killed father" and at the same time knocked out the talk of opposition. After the special registration days the Democrats will have at least 400 majority and it is all nonsense for anybody to say the Republicans have a ghost of a chance to win. The Republicans are realizing this after studying the figures, and can readily see it would be but foolishness on their part to go up against figures that don't lie, so it is not all probable that there will be opposition to the recent Democratic nominees. The following are the correct figures, read them and it will not take you long to see that there is "no use" to run up against a "buzz saw."

The total Democratic plurality is 289, an increase of 134 over the year 1908, and 195 over 1907. The total registration shows: Democrats 889, Republicans 609, Independent 25, total 1,523.

The supplemental registration will increase these figures to a total of 1,700 voters.

The tabulated report of registration shows the Republicans got out their full strength, while the Democrats have about 110 yet to register, which will increase their majority in the city to about 400.

REGISTERED VOTERS, PARIS, KY., OCTOBER 6, 1909.

Precinct.	Dem.	Rep.	Ind.
Paris No. 1.....	131	35	1
Paris No. 2.....	222	59	5
Paris No. 3.....	152	56	4
Paris No. 4.....	194	95	3
Paris No. 5.....	117	214	5
Paris No. 6.....	82	150	4
Total.....	893	609	25
Dem. plurality.....	289
Total number registered, 1,523.

Each of the six wards shows a large Democratic gain over former registrations while the Republican figures fall below the figures of the year 1908.

F. L. McChesney Dead.

Francis Lewis McChesney, Superintendent of the Public Schools of Bourbon County, is dead, in the eightieth year of his age. Gently, peacefully, his spirit passed away, shortly after 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, his only son, James R. McChesney, of Louisville, having arrived but a few hours before the end came.

As author, editor and orator, Mr. McChesney was known, and for his steadfast devotion to principle, and his unwavering support of Democratic men and measures. His life was full of energetic study of economic principles of government. As a writer of political history Mr. McChesney had but few equals. He was possessed of a wonderful memory and during his long career as editor and newspaper writer wrote much of the political history of Kentucky. He was a speaker of considerable ability, fervid, eloquent, and argumentative. Mr. McChesney was born in Georgetown, District of Columbia, Dec. 7, 1829. His father, David McChesney, was a native of New Jersey. His great-grandfather was born in Scotland, and when four years old was brought by his parents to America, and afterward attended Princeton, and was elected a member of the Continental Congress.

David McChesney was a soldier of the war of 1812, and was with Francis Barton Key when the latter wrote the "Star Spangled Banner."

Mr. McChesney's mother was Ann Wise Webster, of Maryland, whose ancestors came to America with Lord Baltimore. Among her nearest relatives was General George W. Childs, who was a conspicuous soldier of the Mexican war. When but three years of age Mr. McChesney's parents came to Kentucky, settling near Great Cross.
